Team,

As you'll see in Michael's note below, this morning we announced the results of the strategic review of our business that began in February with a 13D filing. Dell Technologies has decided to simplify its capital structure and offer a new class of publicly listed common stock. We enter into this next chapter of the company's history from a position of strength and are excited about what this decision means for you and our customers and partners. More details on the decision can be found in our press release from earlier today and Michael's open letter to customers and partners published on DellTechnologies.com.

This news will create chatter in the industry and may lead to questions from customers and partners. They should know and it's our expectation you will reinforce these points:

- The Dell Technologies family of businesses operates – and will continue to operate – with a “better together” approach, with cross-business governance from the executive as well as functional levels.
- Dell Technologies will continue to significantly invest in R&D, the company has spent over $12B in the last three fiscal years, and intends to spend approximately $4.5B per year in the future.
- Dell Technologies is focused on making it easier for partners and customers to transact across the entire family of businesses.
- Dell Technologies remains committed to our value proposition of being “#1 in everything and all in one place” for you.
- Dell Technologies is in a strong position, and this transaction will allow all of our businesses to build on that momentum without disruption while also allowing VMware to maintain its independence.
- VMware has thrived as part of the Dell Technologies family and has seen tremendous traction and strategic relevance with all our customers, resulting in significant revenue growth and financial performance. VMware generated $400M in revenue synergies in FY18 related to its affiliation with Dell Technologies, and in FY19 is on track to achieve $700M faster than initially expected.

- o After the transaction, this winning formula will continue with VMware retaining its independent status, strategy and capital allocation policy.
- It is the right time to bring the full Dell Technologies portfolio to the public market because:
  - o Dell Technologies has a robust financial model with attractive growth and cash flow profile, as well as a strong balance sheet and financial flexibility.
  - o Dell Technologies is successfully repositioning our product offerings.
  - o Dell Technologies has taken a long-term approach to the benefit of our customers and other partners. We have been a public company as long as the tracking stock has been outstanding. The only change will be that our public stock will now reflect the full value of Dell Technologies' family of businesses.
- Dell Technologies will keep its successful growth business model intact, without disruption to our customers, partners, team members and the company.

Michael is committed to Dell Technologies and will remain as Chairman and CEO, and Silver Lake will maintain the entirety of its investment in the company. Feel free to send Michael's open letter to your customers and partners who are curious to learn more.

Today is a step along the journey and there is more work to be done in the coming month and quarters. Upcoming milestones include: 1) Filing of proxy over the next few weeks, 2) A stockholder vote of tracking minority stockholders sometime in late Summer or early Fall, and 3) Assuming an affirmative vote, the transaction should close in Calendar Year Q4 2018.

You continue to be the differentiator for Dell and our relationships with customers and partners. Do not be distracted by this news – use it as an opportunity to reinforce our strength and why we are the partner of choice for IT infrastructure. Thank you for your commitment, focus and results – we are winning because of you!

Marius and Bill

To: Dell and Dell EMC team members

In February, I shared that we were evaluating a number of potential business opportunities to accelerate our growth even faster in today's dynamic IT environment. After a thorough review, we've decided to enter the public market by exchanging the outstanding Class V tracking stock, which was issued at the time of the Dell and EMC combination, for Dell Technologies common stock.

Tracking stock shareholders will have the option to exchange their shares or cash out at a 29 percent premium to the tracking stock closing price. Contingent on the exchange transaction, VMware will offer a cash dividend to all stockholders, including Dell Technologies. More details are available in the press release.

This transaction will simplify our capital and ownership structure and provide public investors the opportunity to share in the value creation of Dell Technologies in its entirety.

From your perspective as a team member, there is no meaningful change to how we've been operating since the combination with EMC, and by no means does it signal a shift in our approach to planning for the future. We will keep the same strategic focus on the long-term that has helped us strengthen, reshape and grow our business.

Nothing changes for Dell, VMware or any of our businesses either. We are strong and getting stronger as evidenced by our Q1 financial results, continued share gains across the Dell Technologies portfolio, and on-track debt reduction. This move just helps streamline the journey we're already on.

The next steps in this process are to publicly file the proxy, host a shareholder vote and, if approved, close the transaction. We expect the process will be complete by the end of the calendar year.

In the meantime, it's business as usual for all of us. We are in a fantastic position with a lot of opportunity ahead. Let's make the most of it!

Michael
